INTEGRATE IT

Part A. (30) Listen and fill in the blanks. [Track 04]

Now that we know what climate change is and how humans cause it, I'll talk about how serious the effects are and what we can do as a government, a nation, and ordinary citizen, to make a difference.

Greenhouse 1. _____ make everything too hot. This causes extremely destructive changes to the Earth's climate and weather conditions. For example, when it gets too hot, droughts, wildfires, and massive tropical storms happen. These tropical storms, known as cyclones, hurricanes, or typhoons – depending on where they happen – destroy plant and animal life in the ocean and on land. Furthermore, polar ice caps are melting, which is causing sea levels to rise. This causes floods and is also starting to destroy major cities, sink entire islands, and cause a lot of other environmental problems. Furthermore, CO₂ and other 2. _____ gases are not good for humans and other animals to breathe in.

Climate change has already caused a lot of 3. _____, and it is continuing to destroy many ecosystems. Humans are the main cause of climate change, especially through air travel, 4. _____, and 5. _____. Despite this, we can be the ones who fix it, but we must act immediately.

There are lots of things that individuals can do to create less CO₂ and other greenhouse gasses. For example, ride a bicycle, walk, or use a 6. _____ that doesn't make CO₂. Make sure you turn off the lights and appliances in your home when you're not using them. Use solar panels on your home instead of using electricity from the power plant.

Many people, companies, and governments may not feel the need to act immediately because the destruction of climate change happens gradually. But, if we don't jump on it now, it'll be too late to change later.
