A. Summary

1. Book Summary

Beauty was the daughter of a wealthy merchant. She was beautiful outside and inside. Then the merchant lost his wealth and became poor. One day, he went to get goods from a ship and got lost on the way home. He came to a beautiful palace where he found food to eat and a bed to sleep on. But he saw no one there. The next morning, as he was leaving, he picked a rose from the garden. Just then, an angry beast appeared. Pleading for his life, the merchant explained that the rose was for Beauty. The Beast made him promise to bring Beauty to the palace.

Beauty came and lived in the palace. Every day the Beast asked her to marry him. But because he was ugly, she always said no. Finally, the Beast asked her to never leave him and she agreed. However, she wanted to go home for a week to see her father. When she returned more than a week later, the Beast was dying. He missed Beauty so much that he could not eat. Beauty had come to love the Beast, and she asked him to marry her. Suddenly, the Beast changed into a handsome prince. He explained that a wicked fairy had turned him into a beast and only a beautiful woman who agreed to marry him could save him. The prince and Beauty were married and lived happily together.

2. Chapter Summary

► Chapter 1

Beauty was the daughter of a wealthy merchant. She was beautiful on the outside and on the inside. But she had two sisters who were only beautiful on the outside. Suddenly, the merchant lost his wealth, and the family had to move to a farm in the country.

► Chapter 2

One day, the merchant heard that a ship had come with his goods. The family would have money again. The two oldest daughters asked their father to buy them expensive things. But Beauty only wanted a rose.

However, when the merchant went to collect his goods, he realized that there was nothing for him, and he was as poor as before. On his way back home, he got lost in a storm and came to a palace. He did not find anyone inside, but he found food and drink and a bed.

► Chapter 3

The next morning, as the merchant was leaving the palace, he saw some beautiful roses. He picked one for Beauty, but suddenly an angry beast appeared. He was the owner of the palace, and he was unhappy that the merchant had taken his rose. The frightened merchant explained that he took the rose for his daughter. The Beast became interested and told him to send his daughter to the palace if he didn't want to die. The merchant agreed.

► Chapter 4

The merchant returned home and explained what had happened. Beauty agreed to go to the palace to save her father's life. They went back to the palace, and the Beast thanked the merchant for his honesty. Beauty was afraid of the Beast. Her father was allowed to stay one night.

► Chapter 5

The next morning, the merchant left, and he and Beauty cried. Later, Beauty looked around the palace and found a room with a sign that said "Beauty's Room." Inside the room was a library. There was a book that said Beauty was the queen there and she could have any wish. When she wished she could see her father, a looking glass appeared. Beauty saw her father looking sad. But her sisters looked happy because Beauty was gone.

► Chapter 6

At dinner, the Beast asked Beauty if he was ugly to her. Beauty did not want to lie, so she told him that he was kind. Then he asked if she would marry him. She said no.

For three months, they dined together each evening, and Beauty came to like the Beast. Every night he asked her to marry him, and the answer was always no. Finally, the Beast asked her to never leave him. She promised not to, but she wanted to see her father one more time. The Beast was unhappy, but he allowed her to go.

► Chapter 7

Beauty was away longer than the one week she had promised. She missed the Beast, and one night she had a dream about him. He seemed to be near death. Beauty immediately returned to the palace, but the Beast did not appear. She looked everywhere for him and finally found him, extremely weak. He had not eaten when she failed to return. Beauty told him that she loved him and begged him to marry her. Then music and a strange light began to shine. Suddenly, the Beast was gone, and standing before Beauty was a handsome prince. The prince explained that a wicked fairy had turned him into a beast. To become a prince again, a beautiful woman had to agree to marry him. They were married and lived happily together.

B. Background and Themes

- ★ Love: Real love is not based on outside beauty.

- ★ Selfishness: If a person is beautiful but selfish, then that person is not truly beautiful.

- ★ Loyalty: Beauty was willing to give up her life to save her father.

- ★ True beauty: The Beast was really a very kind person underneath his ugliness.
